To Whom It May Concern:

I am happy to recommend Five Star Destiny as an organization worthy of your support. Their after school programs on character development have proven to be well organized and rich with meaningful insights for our students in the Elkhart Schools.

Seth Maust has a range of experience mentoring youth, planning events, and designing multi-media programming – and it shows when he is in front of one of our young audiences. He has been compelling and effective in reaching and keeping some of our toughest kids interested and motivated. Five Star's message that "We choose our own destiny" by choosing right thoughts, words, actions, and habits or wrong ones is a message that I want our kids to understand.

We are currently restructuring our entire after school programming, and Five Star Destiny, Inc. is at the top of my list for who I want involved with our students. They are effective, innovative, and based right here in Indiana. They truly want to make a difference in our community. I am giving them the option to be in as many schools as they would like starting next fall.

Not only do I appreciate their efforts in caring for our students, but Seth and his brother Justin have been able to connect with private business partners, and other non-profit agencies to help cover some of their expenses to run the clubs. It's one of the only after school programs that is very effective with students and able to attract outside funds.

Five Star Destiny, Inc. has run after school programs and in-school assemblies at Pierre Moran Middle School, Northside Middle School, Woodland Elementary, and Mary Beck Elementary. I have included some teacher evaluation forms from assemblies at Mary Beck and Woodland Elementary schools, along with some evaluations from the 21st Century Annual Conference in Indianapolis last October, where Five Star Destiny presented a 3-hour keynote that inspired and challenged over 100 educational and after school program leaders from around the state.

Please consider supporting the efforts of these young men in our community schools by generously funding Five Star Destiny, Inc.

Sincerely,

Dr. Clyde J. Remmo, Director
